Joseph D. Teaff : Leisure Services With the Elderly before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Leisure Services With the Elderly:

Integrating current literature related to gerontological theory, research, and practice! The philosophical orientation of this volume is grounded in the basic principles that aging is a natural life cycle process and that leisure services are absolutely vital if there is to be enjoyment throughout the life cycle. The exciting topic of leisure services with the elderly is presented in a concise form. Current research studies, case histories, and illustrations make the reading interesting and enjoyable.
