A Beautiful, Beautiful Book!By Bob NewIt is rare that we would describe a business book as beautiful, but this one truly is. Not only is the artwork subtle and well integrated to contribute to the physical beauty of this book, there is beauty in each story or lesson. You will find well written, detailed case studies on the application and success of Appreciative Inquiry in settings ranging from schools to communities to entire nations. The how-do portions of the book are powerfully written yet easy to understand (in contrast to some of the more academic works on this subject).My favorite 'lesson' comes from Father Greg Banaga and relates the principles of Ai to the teachings in the Bible. Just one example of the uplifting nature of this book and the innate quality of the Appreciative Inquiry Process. Buy it for its practical, informative text, love it for its depth and beauty.

This is the Appreciative Inquiry Fieldbook, full of case studies by working practitioners. The authors generously share rich details of how they approached the Appreciative Inquiry and how it worked. Sections include case studies, community application cases, application of theory, theory and resource. 23 authors contributed including an introduction by David Cooperrider.

From the Publisher
This is the second edition of this highly regarded book. Out of print for a few years, we reprinted the book and found that the case studies were still fresh and useful for all levels of practitioners. The cases are easy to read and have a great deal of detail. This is a must have for anyone interested in the art of Appreciative Inquiry.
From the Inside Flap
Appreciative Inquiry begins an adventure. The urge and call to adventure has been sounded by many people and organizations, and it will take many more to fully explore the vast vistas that are now appearing on the horizon. But even in the first steps, what is being sensed is decisive new direction in our language and theories of organization transformation - an invitation as some have declared to a "positive revolution in change." More than just a "fieldbook," this volume is aiming at something higher. Its meta-message is about building learning community, and the need to dramatically reduce the time lag between innovations in the field and our free and open sharing with each other as creators, colleagues, co-theorists and co-conspirators. David Cooperrider, 1998
